Parent Education - Parenting in a Digital World

Monday, November 14 2106

6:30 – 8:30 PM - ANHS Theater

This class will provide a parent with the knowledge and tools needed to effectively supervise their children in the online world of social networks. Topics will include:

- What is the basic problem with social media?
- Current social media trends with examples found in Orange County schools.
- Tools and strategies on how to properly supervise children online.
- The critical information you need to know before you give your child a smart phone.

This parents only class will be discussing graphic examples of bullying and the emotional impact that it has on young people and it is not suitable for young people under 18 years old.

Instructor: Sergeant Clay Cranford, Orange County Sheriff's Dept., creator of Cyber Safety Cop and author of Parenting in a Digital World. He has served as a School Resource Officer, a member of the School threat assessment team and Crisis Negotiation Team in Orange County. Clay is a nationally recognized expert on social media and investigating violent threats in schools.
